Target Readership Profile

Interior Designer is read extensively by the design community and continues to attract new readers year on year. Professionals in the design sector are able to tap into the great ideas coming out of the industry and apply them to their own design agendas, and continue to refer to Interior Designer and the Interior Design Yearbook as a source of inspiration to help in making informed purchasing decisions.

Our professional readership includes interior designers, architects and product designers, as well as those working in the hospitality sector, on private residences and commercial projects such as public buildings, galleries and offices. Furthermore, readers can access the ID app via Apple or Android.

The Interior Design Yearbook is available in two editions, providing a valuable source of information for the year for professionals and consumers.
